

‘Facing the Music’ — Clay Eals on Steve Goodman

May 2008 edition of Admiral Tidings, the monthly newsletter of Admiral United Church of Christ, West Seattle, Washington.

By TERRY TEIGEN, pastor

Saturday evening, April 12, Admiral Church was host to a wonderfully rich event featuring author (and our good friend) Clay Eals.

We were entertained by Clay telling stories about Goodman, his life and music, and the whole process of developing and publishing his massive volume, Steve Goodman: Facing the Music.

Along with Clay’s presentation there was the Steve Goodman music performed by singer and guitarist Tom Colwell, accompanied by Mark Myers on dobro and harmonica and electric bass player Bruce Hanson, who also added a bluesy harmonica solo to one of the tunes.

It was the kind of community event that Admiral Church has become known for in the neighborhood. This time, though, it was rollicking, fun and at times soulfully heartwarming folk music at the center.

Thank you, Clay, for sharing with us your stories and your passion for this project.